THE ALBATROZ HOTEL

FORMER SEASIDE ROYAL RETREAT NOW BOUTIQUE RETREAT FOR ALL IN CASCAIS

Like a vessel on the sea, The Albatroz Hotel beside the bay of Cascais rises majestically from a promontory overlooking the azure blue water. Just 30 minutes from Lisbon, the family-run Albatroz is coastal living at its glamorous best. Elegant and relaxed, guests typically return time and again and often strike up longstanding relationships with the owners and staff. The tan-limbed set head for the sun terrace with its 180-degree views of the sea while water babies hone their swimming techniques in the sea-facing pool, admiring the view as they glide. When thirst kicks in, there's the sea-front bar serving fruity cocktails and local gourmet snacks, and The Albatroz restaurant to satisfy the gourmand. Carefully designed to maximise the stunning vista, the dining room is a Mediterranean-inspired affair dominated by fabulously fresh fish and seafood with a Portuguese twist. After dinner, nothing beats watching the twinkling lights of the Estoril coast over a glass of local Port. If feeling a little curious about the local scene, a saunter into Cascais (just a two-minute stroll away) might be more the ticket. At the end of a day, comfort awaits in your room, which is guaranteed to differ from your neighbour next door; all 44 have been thoughtfully and individually decorated. And their views, well, let's just say they're full of watery wonder.
